Foreword

The 2014 European Enterprise Promotion Awards (EEPAs) have seen entries from a record number of countries from across Europe; all striving for the chance to win in their category, or the ultimate accolade of the prestigious Grand Jury Prize. A total of 31 countries submitted entries to the EEPAs, including all 28 EU Member States, plus Iceland, Serbia and Turkey. The nominees have all shown their passion for helping SMEs to create and grow their businesses. This is our opportunity to pay tribute to the projects that have supported and encouraged entrepreneurs of all ages and from all walks of life. We owe a great deal to these organisations which play such a crucial role in ensuring that entrepreneurship remains a viable and desirable career path for so many in Europe.

Since 2006, over 2,800 projects have participated in national competitions for a chance to compete in the European Enterprise Promotion Awards. Of these, 42 projects have successfully won an EEPA and have been given the opportunity to both showcase their work across Europe and to inspire best practice. Together these projects have helped to create thousands of companies and contributed to increased European economic growth.

The creativity and imagination that participants demonstrate year after year is astonishing and uplifting in equal amounts; and it is these initiatives which encourage SMEs to continue to play a vital role in the up-keep and regeneration of Europe’s economy.

As we share the 2014 winners and their successes with the world, I would like to personally thank all participating organisations and especially the National Co-ordinators who manage the competitions in all participating countries. The national competitions are critical in raising awareness about how public bodies as well as public/private sector partnerships support small business.

Hundreds of projects competed for a chance to win an EEPA award this year; 58 were selected by their countries to compete at European level. So you can be assured that the seven winners, 12 runners-up and three special mention projects presented here represent the very best. I hope their ideas and innovations will inspire other organisations and individuals across Europe to do more for small business, who are the driving force of European economic growth and job creation.

Ferdinando Nelli Feroci
Member of the European Commission for Entrepreneurship & Industry
Small businesses driving European growth

SMEs are independent companies with fewer than 250 employees. They provide two out of three private sector jobs and are responsible for 85% of new jobs created. SMEs account for 67% of total employment and 58% of gross value added (GVA).

The latest research shows that SMEs continue to form the backbone of the European economy, with some 20.6 million companies employing more than 87 million people; and accounting for more than 99.8% of all enterprises.

The biggest share of enterprise is represented by micro firms with fewer than ten employees - 92%.
Putting Small Business First: the Small Business Act for Europe

Adopted in June 2008, the Small Business Act for Europe (SBA) reflects the Commission’s recognition of the central role that SMEs play in the EU economy. For the first time, it sets out a comprehensive SME policy framework for the EU and its Member States.

The aim of the Act is to improve the overall approach to entrepreneurship; and permanently embed the ‘Think Small First’ principle in policy-making – from regulation to public service. The Act promotes SME growth by helping them tackle problems which hamper their development, particularly focusing on initiatives that help small businesses by:

- Cutting red tape
- Providing access to finance
- Increasing access to markets
- Creating an entrepreneurial environment
- Adapting public policy tools to SME needs

Finally, the Act also aims to deliver a longer-term shift in attitudes – creating a greater awareness of the role entrepreneurs play in society and encouraging and inspiring potential new entrepreneurs.

A spin-off: The European Enterprise Promotion Awards

The European Enterprise Promotion Awards support the aims of the Small Business Act by recognising innovation and rewarding the success of public bodies and public-private partnerships in promoting enterprise & entrepreneurship at a national, regional and local level.

SME Envoys

As part of the review of the SBA, the Commission invited Member States to nominate a national SME Envoy to complement the role of the European Commission’s SME Envoy, Mr Daniel Calleja Crespo. Together with representatives of EU-level SME business organisations, the network of SME Envoys facilitates the implementation of the Small Business Act on a European level and in Member States.

Understanding the judging process

Individual countries were invited to conduct national competitions to determine the best projects to represent their nation.

Hundreds of projects competed in these national competitions in 2014 for a chance to enter the European Enterprise Promotion Awards. Countries were allowed to nominate a maximum of two entries (in different categories) to the European competition.

Each Jury member reads and assesses every entry against defined criteria covering: originality & feasibility, impact on the economy, improvement of stakeholder relations and transferability.

The Jury then meets to discuss their top entries in each category, before agreeing on winners, runners up and any special mentions. The shortlist is published shortly after the jury meeting and the winners are announced during the Awards Ceremony at the SME Assembly.

Encouraging Business Start-ups by Mothers with Young Children
Gazdagmami Kft., Hungary

In Hungary, half of mothers with small children are not able to return to their job at the end of their maternity leave and employment of mothers with children under three is well below the EU average. Encouraging Business Start-ups by Mothers with Young Children is an exceptional project that helps mothers acquire the entrepreneurial skills and mindset to start a business and make it profitable.

Through their blog, Facebook page, freely downloadable studies, a weekly newsletter on marketing and a free of charge Entrepreneurial Women’s Roundtable monthly meeting, mothers can navigate the world of business and build relationships with one another. Their e-learning training programmes are specifically designed to conform to a mother’s schedule, with subjects including research, legal and taxation matters and technical and marketing skills, all of which are necessary to start and run a successful business.

In addition, the project hosts a series of competitions and events. Since 2010, The Mother Company of the Year competition has allowed 443 mothers of young children to present their businesses whilst the Business Mums’ Conference brings together mothers who are interested in business with those who are already entrepreneurs.

Think Small First
Latvian Chamber of Commerce and Industry, Riga, Latvia

Think Small First was developed to help Latvia get out of the economic crisis. The initiative has helped micro-enterprises by promoting the creation of a special tax rate and simplified tax accounting system, by introducing a micro-credit program and by making information about launching a business available in one place.

When the framework for micro-enterprises was launched, the shadow economy in Latvia reached 38.1% of the GDP. As a result of this initiative, the proportion of the shadow economy in 2011 had decreased to 30.2%, while in 2012 it decreased to 21.2% of the GDP. A total of 28,000 enterprises utilised the simplified tax-account system.
